COLLECTORS this season have not equalled my expectations. The crop of cotton was large, prices good, and funds comparatively abundant. Consequently, I expect to do better. To the latter I would suggest, what is the time? This much more than to make payment now, than it was last season, or, than it may be next. It is not wise then, to improve this "Golden" opportunity, and while money is cheap, to extinguish old liabilities.

I am anxious to collect my old debts. From those who have done nothing, or but little yet, I shall expect liberal payments in March.

Mr. F. H. GOODWIN, is our authorized agent, to receive and remit for subscriptions to the Republican, and to receive and remit for advertising.

Our friends and patrons will confer a favor upon us, which will be gratefully appreciated, by affording him every facility in their power, in the transaction of business.

Office's Blanks.

We are now prepared to supply the newly elected Justices of the Peace and Constables, with the blanks they may need, such as—Warrants, Executions, Attachments, Garnishments, Stay Bonds, Appeal Bonds and Delivery Bonds, all neatly printed on good paper from correct forms from the Code.

Those who cannot apply in person can send their orders, and we will fill them, assuring the various kinds of Blanks in proper proportions.

Bartlett Owen, Esq. Tax Assessor of Calhoun County, will receive and transmit to the names of persons who may wish to subscribe for this paper at his various appointments for assessing or other places. He is also authorized to receive for any subscription money which may be paid to him.

An Inducement.—We now propose to all our subscribers who owe for over one, two, three or more years, to receive their dues at two dollars per year, until after the close of our approaching spring term of the Circuit Court.

BUSINESS ENERGY.—The office of the Memphis Avalanche, recently destroyed by fire, the work of an incendiary, was replaced by new materials and the paper issued in little over a week. The materials were procured from St. Louis, and we presume the order sent by telegraph. Thirty years ago it would have taken three months or more to have arranged for the issuance of a new paper.

THE INOX IS BORN!—We were shown, says the Selma Reporter, a telegraphic dispatch, on yesterday, from Judge Walker to Col. Lewis, of this place stating that the former had just closed a contract for the iron to reach to the town of Talladega. It is to be delivered in three weeks, and to be paid for on delivery. We suppose the fifty thousand dollars to be raised in Talladega, is, or will be by that time, ready, and that there will be no delay. It is all-important that the iron should be delivered at this point at an early day, while the river is up, so that the work can be pushed through with speed.

INDIAN WAR.—Another battle has been fought between the U. S. Troops, under Lt. Powell and the Cananache Indians, in which five Indians and one soldier were killed, and two soldiers wounded.

Daring Robbery.—We learn by a letter from J. M. Owens, that a Store was broken open, in the eastern part of this County, and robbed of a considerable amount of goods; and the robbers also stole a horse in the neighborhood. The crime was committed by two boys, one nearly grown and the other only about 11 years of age. The goods and horse have been recovered, but the robbers have made their escape.

New York and Charleston Steamship Line.—The attention of the travelling public is invited to the advertisement of this admirable line, in another column. Arrangements have been effected by which through tickets to New York may be obtained in New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Atlanta or Augusta, upon very cheap terms. The price of freight upon goods too, has been greatly reduced. For travel, this may be truly said to be a safe, cheap and speedy line.

We are compelled to defer until next week, the publication of the obituary notice of T. M. Barker, Esq., recently Circuit Clerk of St. Clair Co.

Breaks in the Levees on the Mississippi.—Already, accounts of breaks in the levees on the Mississippi, are pouring in. They have broken in several places in Washington and Issaquena counties. At Cammack's landing the break is a very large one and the current is so strong, that the levee has been formed some six feet deep, and so large that the workmen were compelled to abandon it.

The communication of "Nun" will appear next week.

The obituary notice of A. Hart, late of this county will be published in our next.

THE WAR REMOVS IN EUROPE.—A Paris correspondent of the New York French paper, the Courrier des Etats Unis, in a recent letter says:

Three days ago a gentleman who fills a high office in the Palace of the Tuilleries said to me: "The resolution of the Emperor is irrevocably taken; and war will take place in a month or two at the latest. Napoleon III. will command in person the principal body of the army; this is one of his aspirations, the oldest and most ardent. He has already shown that he possessed the genius of his uncle as a politician; he wishes also to show that he has inherited his military genius. A Bonaparte ought to be a soldier."

American Literature.

American literature is as yet in its embryo, and the elements of a healthy growth, and a steady growth, are not yet fully formed. There is also the small Principality of Monaco, with fifty square miles and seven thousand people.

The whole population of Italy is about twenty millions. It is in the new Austrian provinces of Lombardy and Venice that revolt and revolution are imminent.

Support your mechanics.—There is scarcely anything which tends more to the improvement of a town, than a fair and liberal support afforded to the mechanics of every description. Population is necessary to the prosperity of the town and country, and that population being of a honest and industrious character, renders prosperity more certain, uniform and enduring.

From the Richmond Enquirer, Feb. 22.

A BLACK REPUBLICAN PRESIDENT.

"The question is, shall the negro be recognized for a black republican administration?"

Such are the ominous words which the Washington States closes an able and searching article on the re-nomination of Mr. Stephens. An article which exposes the fact and evils of extravagance with a boldness and vigor which invokes the genius of "Naomi and the men of his school" to reform the abuses of these evil days—discards with a just severity the plans of the protectionists—exalts the benefits of governmental economy and industry, and presents the means to the expenditure of the Postoffice, War, Naval Interior, Treasury & State Departments which would reduce the demands of the government very nearly to the just estimate of $100,000,000, which Mr. Stephens recently declared, in the cause of democratic representatives, "an abundance for the national expense"—an opinion which Mr. Stephens demonstrated to be true, by a statement of fact full of evidence.

Mr. Stephens' administration, that the country had gone through the expensive and ruinous war, with sixty-three thousand soldiers in the field, for fifty-three millions and now in time of peace the estimates were seventy-three millions.

But our present object is to present an illustration of the Federal finances. A grave subject is suggested by the extract which we have placed at the head of this article. It is simply and truthfully stated, "that such an administration would not only sink all questions of finance into insignificance, but would also be a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union."

It is not now considering whether such an administration would be a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, but whether the election of a black republican President would or ought to result in immediate revolution.

That the French revolution, which was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union.

That the French revolution, which was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union.

Additional by the Europe.

Paris is teeming with pamphlets about the war.

The last pamphlet of the subject is from the pen of the celebrated M. de Girardin. La Guerre shows Girardin at the head of confederated Italy by the arms of France, would never do—it would be a paltry war.

"How would you settle Italy," he asks his countrymen, "when you have driven out the Germans? Would you keep the reigning Princes? Would you place the Pope at the head of a Confederation? But in both cases, you offend the liberal party, who look on the Pope as the inspiration and the Princes as the tools of the Austrian Court."

And how would you compensate Austria in order to reconcile her to a coalition without years of war? You could not give her the Principality, which you have just constituted as a State; you could not give life to one nationality by the destruction of another.

M. de Girardin is in favor of a war which will avenge Waterloo, which will place France in a position, which will put an end to the burlesque charges of an armed peace—a war which will cause reciprocity to succeed in rivalry—a war undertaken, not in the view of nationality, but of unity—a logical war, which may leave conquerors and conquered, but not oppressors and oppressed.

That the French revolution, which was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union, was a total and final separation of the slave States from the Union.

For Grant's Republican.

To Mrs. R. in Heaven.

Thou art gone, dear one; The angels took thee from this sinful world.

Thou wert an angel in our pathway, A beautiful figure from Paradise.

And sickness are not known, & where thy checks Will never grow pale again. 'Tis well, for thou wert too pure & good for Earth! Thy dove-like spirit now hath flown away To amaranth bowers above the stars, To fold its wings in peace forever.

But we are desolate-souls of God! Thou wert an angel in our pathway, A beautiful figure from Paradise. Permitted by the Maker of Flowers To stay in our midst a little season, Then taken away in all thy gentle Loveliness, leaving us to muse o'er thy Transit from Earth to Heaven, till we could Almost wish ourselves now where thou art.

Dear, sainted one! If thou canst yet traverse this Earth, To the low moan of anguish as it comes, Girdling up from the bleeding heart, I pray

That thou mayest rest like a tired bird Upon my bosom, and read the record of its sorrows. I would not make thee sad—I know that thou art blest; But I would have thee know, my dear Mother,

How I have mourn'd thy absence, and how I have wept I Oft have wept upon thy grave, a lingered With the sacred dust till the sun had set, And night's baptism of dew came down like Angel tears to soothe the brow, when the Storm of agony has passed, & the pale Lips would move no more in prayer.

"Thy work," the hollow world will say, To grief so much. 'Tis even so; my strength Is all in love—the love I bear for thee All absent as thou art.

The cherub babe that thou didst leave Me here, My all this side the portals of the grave, Is thy exact image, & I must live For it, else I could wish myself a grave Beside that lonely one of mine, for I Am weary, and would love to rest.

Sleep on, sweet one; It cannot now be long ere we shall meet. The days will come and go, years roll away And then the hour will last approach When death's angel comes to bid thee go, Shall break the last partition bars my Soul from thine!

Roll on, sweet one, roll on! Thy swift yet tardy years, and yawn, O grave, Remorseless, gladly grave!

For the Republican.

MR. GRANT: I do not care, as I said before, to make a speech. I thank my brother editors for doing me the honor of inviting me here—I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

What affects the printer, affects me. I feel as if I were a printer, and I feel as if I were a printer, and I feel as if I were a printer.

Editors and Printers.

GOV. PACKER, of Pennsylvania, was recently invited to take a seat in an editorial convention at Harrisburg, when he made the following speech:

Mr. President and Brother Editors: Your worthy President has done me too much honor, certainly. When I was invited to take a seat among my brethren editors—for I am proud to call myself still an editor; although it is a long time, some fifteen years, since I have had anything to do with the publication of a newspaper—I did not expect to be thus specially honored.

Nearly forty years ago, I entered a printing office, when I was a student. I went through all the grades, from the lowest printer's apprentice, to that of the conductor of a public journal, and I published a paper for some fifteen or twenty years. I certainly did not distinguish myself as an editor, as my friend on my left has done, although I believe he never was a practical printer.

The President just now, had that honor, and I am sorry that I had not. Gov. PACKER—Brother Editors: It is the highest honor that has ever been conferred upon me, and I look back to it with pleasure. I passed through the poor boy's college, in making my way through life. My first place was as a clerk for a great newspaper, where there were no printers, and you will find that the whole world was enveloped in darkness, and that to be a poor man was to be a serf and a slave. Now, civilization, and the arts and sciences, march behind the printing press—Wherever you send your army, the most potent machine that goes with the most potent machine, the cannon is more terrible than the sword, is the printing press; and to-day, the printing press is more feared by the elements of greatness, than the sword, and all the armies of the world. What is it that Louis Napoleon most fears? It is the printing press. It is the printing press that has been the most potent machine that goes with the most potent machine, the cannon is more terrible than the sword, is the printing press; and to-day, the printing press is more feared by the elements of greatness, than the sword, and all the armies of the world.

AT CHANCERY.
Rebecca S. Towery, At Rules held by her next friend
Eliza Brock, vs
Robert C. Towery, very District of the Northern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, at Jacksonville, Monday, 28th
March, A. D. 1859.

THIS day came the Complaint by her Solicitors, Heth & Forney, and moved the Register for an order of publication against the Defendant, Robert C.
Towery. And it appearing to the satisfaction of the Register, by an affidavit on file, that the said Robert C.
Towery is over twenty one years of age,
a non resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown, it is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made, as to the Defendant, Robert C. Towery, by publishing a copy of this order in a newspaper called the Jacksonville Republican, published in the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, notifying and requiring the said Robert C. Towery to be and appear before the undersigned Register in Chancery, at his office in Jacksonville, Alabama, on or before the Monday the 28th day of May, A. D.
1859, to plead, answer or demur to the Complainant's original bill of complaint, filed in this Court against said Defendant, or in default thereof, the allegations, statements and charges contained in said bill, will be taken as admitted by said Defendant. It is further ordered that a copy of this order, be posted up at the Court House at Jacksonville, in Calhoun county, Alabama, within twenty days from date.

COLLECTORS this season have not equalled my expectations. The crop of cotton was large, prices good, and funds comparatively abundant. Consequently, I expected much. True, some have done well; others, nothing.
To the latter I would suggest, "chatter now in the dust." This is much more than last season, or than it may be now.
Is it not wise then, to improve this "Golden" opportunity, and while money is cheap, to extinguish old liabilities?

I am anxious to collect my old debts.
From those who have done nothing, or but little yet, I shall expect liberal payments in March.

21st, A. D. 1859.

THIS day came James A. Gladden and Martha J. Gladden, filed in this Court their petition in writing representing that Joseph Gladden, lately died at his residence, in said County, leaving his written last will and Testament, and they herewith present the same, and ask that it be pro-bated, established, admitted to record, as the last will and Testament of the said Joseph Gladden; and they further represent, that the following are the non-resident heirs at law of said decedent, to-wit: Harry J. Gladden, Alonzo W. Gladden and Rufus C.
Gladden, who are over twenty one years of age, and resides in Calhoun County, North Carolina—Sally Wells,
